Teachers do their homework

More than 1,200 school teachers from all districts in Williamson County did their homework this week and attended two days of special staff development training at the Georgetown High School.

The program is known as STAR, for Staff Training And Renewal, and was designed to provide special instruction to teacher's individual needs and abilities. The Education Service Center and the Staff Development Councils of Project STAR joined together to offer this staff development program.

More than 195 sessions were held over the two-day period and more than 50 special session directors were employed.

Donna Gage, curriculum director for the Georgetown Independent School District served as session co-ordinator and seemed extremely pleased with the response to and the effect of Project STAR.

"Sessions like these meet the needs of the teachers," she said, "we try to make each

Wood enjoying challenge at Chamber of Commerce

The new manager of the Georgetown Chamber of Commerce, Vivian Wood, has been on full-time duty for just two weeks but already she's beginning to make her presence felt.

The first thing to grab the attention of anyone visiting the Chamber of Commerce office is the appearance of the reception office. "It's a woman's prerogative to change things around," Mrs. Wood says, "so I made some changes.

"We've cleaned up, changed the furniture, put in some plants, and made the area look friendlier and more receptive to visitors. People can come in now and sit down and feel comfortable," she adds.

As to the job itself, Mrs. Wood says, "It's really a challenge, but I enjoy it. There are a lot of things that need to be done. The Chamber of Commerce is a service organization and we have to give service to our members and take care of them.

"We currently have 174 members, both individuals and companies, but it should be a lot more than that. Anyone living or working in Georgetown should want to be involved. There's no reason why anyone should not want to belong to the Chamber of Commerce if they have pride in Georgetown."

As to how to join the Chamber, Mrs. Wood replied, "If we think someone is interested, we'll go to them and ask them to join. But anyone can just walk into the office and tell us they want to join and we'll certainly welcome them. The dues for membership are $30 a year for an individual and start at $60 for companies and go up on a scale."

A membership drive back in March and April "was successful," according to Mrs. Wood, "but we'd have liked for it to have been much more successful. I'm sure there are a lot of people in Georgetown who should be interested in joining the Chamber but just haven't been contacted."

Mrs. Wood has been working as the Chamber Manager on a full-time basis since Aug. 15 after starting on a half-day basis Aug. 8. She had previously worked as a secretary in the same office from 1969 to 1971.

"I considered the job last September," she admits, "but decided the businessmen of the town might not like for me to be the Chamber Manager since my husband (Leo Wood) is the City Manager."

"But Leo and I soon came to realize that there would not be any conflicts involved in my taking this job. Leo is so professional in his job and the City is always so helpful — we can always call on them whenever we want anything done and we just really couldn't get along without the City Government."

Mrs. Wood said it's something of an inside joke that the Chamber of Commerce now has "an inside line to the City at the breakfast table," but adds, "I hardly ever get to see Leo at the breakfast table anymore — he's always busy with something or gone somewhere."

Mrs. Wood relates that the Chamber has a number of things going on, including updating the community profile, getting a new city map prepared, planning for the San Gabriel Arts & Crafts Show, and working up a Community Calendar.

"We hope to have the community profile out very soon," she says. "It'll be a complete rundown of the utilities, schools, churches and other information about Georgetown and the surrounding area and should be very helpful to folks thinking of moving here. We will mail out copies and also give them to realtors to pass on to their customers."

The new city map will include up-to-date listing of streets and subdivisions which don't appear on most city maps now. "Our old maps are becoming obsolete," Mrs. Wood says, "because Georgetown is growing at such a tremendous rate. It's really amazing how the city has grown in the past few years and when you drive around the area you can see how many new houses are being built. It's really something."

The Arts & Crafts Show, set for Nov. 19-20, is already commanding a lot of attention. "We have sent our registration forms already," Mrs. Wood says, "and we're getting a good response so far. We are going to have a full show."

Had long political career

Judge Sam Stone dies

Longtime public official Judge Samuel Vaughan Stone died at the age of 87 at the Wesleyan Home in Georgetown Wednesday morning, August 24.

"The Judge," as he was familiarly called, had lived in Georgetown since a young man and was known by nearly every citizen of Williamson County who has lived here prior to his retirement from public office at the end of 1970.

He is survived by his wife, Berenice, and by two sons, Michael Stone of Dallas and Sam V. Stone, Jr., of Austin; a brother, Kenneth Waverly Stone of Houston; and seven grandchildren.

Funeral rites were read at the First Methodist Church, Georgetown, Friday morning, and committal services were held at the I. O. O. F. Cemetery with the Rev. Tom Graves officiating. Davis Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

Pallbearers were Charles Forbes, Ed Harris, Jr., Thomas E. Nelson, Jr., J. Thatcher Atkin, Marvin Behrens, Mac Birtchet, Dr. Douglas Benold, and Judge William S. Lott.

Samuel Vaughan Stone was born July 23, 1890, the son of Addie Vaughan and James

Taylor won't hold county prisoners

County Commissioners voted Thursday not to have any county prisoners housed in the Taylor city jail after September 1.

The county has been keeping prisoners caught in the eastern part of the county in the city facility in a cooperative agreement with the City of Taylor.

Thursday, County Commissioners were told that the Taylor Board of Commissioners would only continue to house county prisoners if an indemnity clause was added to the county's jail agreement with the city.

Taylor City Manager Ron Byers told county commissioners that Taylor would continue to house county prisoners only if the county would agree to hold the city completely free and harmless for any and all claims, damages and legal actions which may arise in connection with the housing of county prisoners.

County Commissioners said they did not think they could legally accept total responsibility for all legal actions against the City of Taylor or any individual police officers or jailers.

They also questioned whether the county could continue to legally house prisoners overnight in jails which might not meet Jail Commission standards.

Commissioners Wesley Foust and Carl

Lidell, who seemed to find the city officials attitude very uncooperative, said that in the future the county would expect the same type of contract being sought by Taylor should Taylor at any time need to use the county jail.

A motion that all county prisoners be held in the county jail was passed unanimously by county commissioners.

The Taylor city officials had insisted on the indemnity clause, hoping to avoid any legal conflicts like the lawsuit last year where a $99,000 judgement was awarded against the County Sheriff and his jailers because of the death of prisoner in the county jail.

The indemnity clause that Taylor wanted inserted in the contract read as follows:

"As an additional consideration for the services to be provided for County by City, County agrees to protect, indemnify and hold City, its officers, agents and employees completely free and harmless for any and all claims, damages and causes of action of every kind and character which may arise by virtue or in connection with the housing of such persons designated as County prisoners by City whether arising out of contract or tort or by reason of any act or omission and specifically including, but certainly not limited to all court costs and reasonable attorney's fees."

Jarrell hires teachers

A reshuffling of assignments, along with the hiring of some new personnel, were objects of interest as the Jarrell School Board held a special called meeting Wednesday morning.

Chuck Kautzer, recently hired from Emporia State University in Kansas where he was a summer graduate, moved up from his assistant coaching position to head coach of the Jarrell football varsity team following last week's resignation of Don Brown.

James Ward, a 23-year veteran teacher, was hired as junior high football, high school boys basketball and baseball coach. He will also teach elementary social studies, having certification as both an elementary and high school teacher.

Ward comes to Jarrell from Temple, where he has been in the Man Power Program the past year. Prior to that he was at Westphalia Common School.

Kautzer, in addition to coaching football, will be the junior high boys basketball coach and head the high school boys and girls track program and junior high boys track.

Two other new teachers have joined the Jarrell staff, according to Supt. A. L. Lytle. Miss Terri Lawrence, coming from Weslaco, will teach in the kindergarten, fill in as a social studies teacher and coach junior high girls athletics.

Mrs. Linda Kirton, a graduate of Southwestern University, will be working in the field of elementary language arts.

Lytle announced that the Jarrell Kindergarten will operate this year on a half-day basis, from 8:30 a.m. to noon, and lunches will be available for 50 cents each for all kindergarten children.

New bus drivers hired for the Jarrell Schools are Dewey Blackman and Patsy Sundberg.

Personal computer boom

By Douglas Starr

Boston
Gene Weinstein first wandered into a computer store in April, 1976. "Computers were all around me," the importer explains. "I went mainly out of curiosity." Since then he has spent about $7,000 on his newfound hobby. He's a confirmed "computerist."

Mr. Weinstein symbolizes a phenomenon that should blossom in 1977: a love affair between Americans and the computer. If indications are correct, this country will fall for computers in a way that, as one expert says, "will make the CB craze look insignificant."

It began in late 1974. MITS (Micro Instrumentation and Telemetry Systems), a small mail-order house deeply in debt, introduced a personal computer that hobbyists could buy in kit form for about $400. The heart of the unit was a fingernail-sized chip that could take the place of thousands of vacuum tubes. Starting with the basic unit, for about $1,500 hobbyists could build a system whose computing power would have cost $500,000 20 years before.

Observers liken what happened next to a coiled spring that was finally released. "I figured to sell maybe 800 units over the next eight months," says MITS's then-president Ed Roberts. "Six months later we were shipping 1,500 a month." The company's worth jumped from "negative $250,000 to $6 million last May."

The first computer retail store opened in June, 1975, in west Los Angeles. Now there are more than 250 throughout the country, with half a dozen chains. The number of manufacturers of microcomputers grew from one in early 1975 (MITS) to an estimated 60-100 today. Nearly a dozen magazines sprang up. Retailers say that between 15,000 and 25,000 microcomputers have already found their way into American homes.

What do people use them for? Games, mostly. Destroy the Klingons with the Starship Enterprise. Maneuver your moon vehicle for a safe landing. Avoid the grasp of three amorous robots. "I went through them all," Gene Weinstein recalls. "I got so I could beat an 11-year-old at Star Trek at least some of the time."

There were other uses too. Businessmen took their machines to the office, programming them to keep ledgers and inventory, to manage payroll.

Now comes the next stage in this digital love affair, one that experts say will begin around Christmas: mass marketing. Popular video games have already softened Americans to the idea of computers in the home. Now two companies — Radio Shack and Commodore Business Machines — have introduced complex, programmable computers to go on the market in September. At less than $600, the units are complete: you simply take them home and plug them in. (Previously you had to mix and match to get the system you needed.)

Distributors are gearing up. Radio Shack will sell the computers at 140 of its outlets, then place them in its more than 5,000 stores. Industry talk is that Sears, Roebuck is already test-marketing its entry into the field.

Like businessmen, homeowners will find their toys practical. A home computer can randomly turn lights on and off while you're away. It can switch on a lawn sprinkler after sensing dryness in the ground. It can produce a recipe and change it to suit any number of people.

"The computer will attain the same stature as an appliance," declares Alan Kaplan, a computer market consultant who did a five-month study of personal computer sales. "The number of microprocessors in the home is going to be very, very high."

Not all market watchers agree with Mr. Kaplan's predictions. And those that do agree do not all think it's a good thing. "People may become more isolated than they are now," worries Eric Sandberg-Diment, publisher and editor of the computer magazine ROM. "It's like TV only more interactive. Instead of doing macramé, people will sit around making colorful designs on the video and playing them back."

But if the worlds of devotees are any indication, we are in for a heady affair indeed. "It's been like marriage," says Gene Weinstein of his year and five months with a personal computer. "It started as curiosity and sometimes nearly ended in frustration. But in the end it's been useful and very rewarding."

Georgetown, Texas, August 28, 1977

He went that-a-way

Letters

Dear Editor

As I'm sure you're aware there are many of us here in Georgetown who are becoming concerned about the rapid and seemingly uncontrolled growth of our city. We wonder if Georgetown is going to be allowed to grow in a rampant and ill-defined manner or will this growth be so guided and controlled that the end result is a pleasant and well oriented city in which to live.

A case in point of this upsetting situation is the recent issuance of a building permit to H & H Construction Company of Dallas, Texas for an apartment complex. This permit was issued over repeated complaints and objections from the resident taxpayers who own adjacent property. Additionally, the council was told by our City Attorney that he had not had time to review the pertinent legal information which should be received prior to legal comment.

This proposed complex is planned for construction on Leander Road, just west of Interstate No. 35. This is a noisy high traffic area which hardly seems suitable for a two story apartment complex. There are at least four

AUSTIN NOTEBOOK

By Bill Kidd

AUSTIN — Wanting to run for public office doth not a candidate make, of course; neither does filing a campaign treasurer designation with the Secretary of State's Office.

BUT SUCH A FILING does allow a candidate to receive campaign contributions — and money is as much the sinews of political warfare as of military battles.

A check of the card files at the Secretary of State's Office turns up some interesting items from time to time.

It was, in fact, that campaign treasurer card filed by former Gov. Preston Smith listing himself as treasurer (without specifying what race) that convinced some folks Smith was serious in his talk about attempting to unseat the man who replaced him in that red-carpeted office.

Smith's not the only one to file a campaign treasurer designation without indicating what campaign.

Attorney General John Hill, for instance, filed such a designation before Smith did, so that he could build up his war chest.

Price Daniel, Jr., also filed, without saying for what — although his plans to make the race for attorney general have been common currency for some time.

Bob Bullock's also got his card on file — without indicating what office — as have several other incumbents.

THE FACT THAT IT is optional to designate what race is being sought does make it convenient for folks who have decided they want to run — but aren't sure what support — or opposition — they might have in a particular race.

Some seem to be filing on what might be termed the "incumbent catastrophe theory."

That means, as one incumbent put it, someone may file in hopes some disaster will strike the current officeholder.

Informed of a filing by a potential opponent, one incumbent said he put it down as a "what if" candidacy: "What if I don't run... what if I get indicted... what if I break my neck falling down stairs."

NEITHER OF THE FIRST two is a possibility, he added — and he plans to use elevators.)

Then, too, some folks haven't made any designation of what office they're after because they're waiting for the incumbent to make his statement that he's planning to move up the political ladder — so they can then praise his past efforts and present decision and then get some licks in for themselves.

Secretary of State Mark White himself apparently is in that category — having filed his designation, without specifying for what office.

There are some other practical considerations for this official shyness.

One former (and unsuccessful) candidate for high statewide official was commenting the other day on how he'd been cured of political fever.

After having much support and encouragement to get into the race, he said, he announced he'd run — and presto! there went support, encouragement and a lot of retainer fees.

The campaign, he added, never got off the ground.

While those campaign designations are a necessary first step, the election code itself specifies that such a designation doesn't make one a candidate — so some of the folks who've filed may never get to the point of having their names on a primary.

BUT THOSE DESIGNATIONS can provide an indicator of the political health of an incumbent — and may help other would-be candidates to either get in or stay out of a race.

Many of those coming in now are for congressional districts — with the great turnover that the Texas delegation will have being reelected in the number of cards which are coming in.

But while those filings show what's going on this year, none so far have been as intriguing as the one for May, 1976, on which a congressional hopeful named "The Good Shepherd, Jesus of Nazareth" as his campaign treasurer.

Signature by the campaign treasurer also is optional. This one wasn't signed.

RUNAWAY WIVES

Runaway wives constitute an increasing social phenomenon. This is not about that — exactly.

Restiveness to "get away from it all" if only for a while — heretofore an escape from boredom mostly for males — now motivates increasingly independent women.

This is about one of them.

SABINA SHALOM IS 47. British by birth. More recently a resident, with her husband, of Miami, Fla. Stocky, middle-aged mother of two.

She had everything she wanted, was agonizingly bored.

Says she was "rotting away," doing nothing productive, growing grossly fat.

So when a letter from a friend in Australia invited her to visit there, she asked for a sabbatical from her 25-year marriage.

To her husband of 25 years she said, "Our sons are grown now — 22 and 24 — and I'm doing nothing but cooking and washing dishes."

She said, "You'd give any household servant a day off each week. In 25 years I'm due three years vacation with pay; I'll settle for one year."

"What'll I do about food?" her pragmatic husband asked.

SHE SUGGESTED A SEASON ticket at the local delicatessen. He agreed.

Mrs. Shalom says, "Midst a lot of brass, my husband is pure gold."

So —

She strapped a pack on her back and set out to see the world.

She traveled by plane, ship, bus and afoot.

There were some hairy encounters.

There was a lecherous photographer in Tahiti.

The mudmen of New Guinea "stunk to high heaven."

Food was often hazardous and sometimes upsetting.

AND A COUPLE OF REMARKS indicate that her adventure might have a less than happy ending.

Was her runaway the result of middle-age fidgets or a bold declaration of independence?

She says she has never felt the need to be "liberated."

But then she adds, "I may return to my husband..."

The inescapable inference was that she may not.

Judge Sam V. Stone

The death of Judge Sam V. Stone this week ended the career of a remarkable person who chose public service to make his contribution.

JUDGE STONE WAS a delightful individual, quick of wit and response. He began his career as the tax assessor-collector of Williamson County, subsequently ran for and won the office of County Judge, which he held until his retirement in 1970. His tenure in the two offices covered a span of 48 years.

Judge Stone was not a lawyer when he was elected County Judge but he applied himself to the study of law and soon passed his bar examinations, an example of how he tackled his other problems. He was, of course, twice named Georgetown's Outstanding Citizen, he was a premier Boy Scout leader and he honored the judicial office he held so long by his excellent service. He served with distinction in World War I.

HE WAS UNBEATABLE as a campaigner. He ran against Lyndon B. Johnson for Congressman, 10th District, in 1937, and came close to winning, even though he was operating from a town of 3500 and Johnson from his Austin base. In the county he always won easily although he had some hard challenges from well qualified men.

Summing it up, Judge Sam Stone was a fine person and made his community and our country a better place by being here.

9 voted "NO"

With 9 members present at the Friday morning coffee session, a sample poll revealed all 9 opposed the U. S.-Panama agreement in its present form, although some of those counted believed a treaty would be forthcoming within a year or so.

THE COFFEE CROWD simply doesn't like the monetary aspects of the treaty as proposed by our statesmen. "Why should we give hundreds of millions of dollars to Panama when we are turning the canal over to them?" was the question. "How many Americans died in digging that canal?" was another.

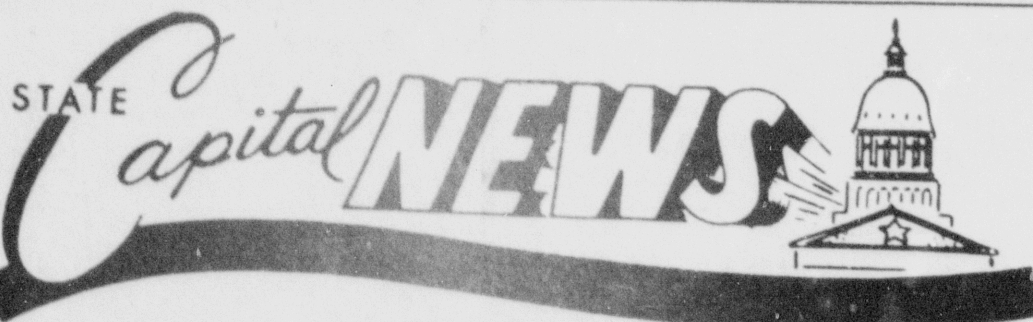

One suggestion proposed: Write the contract for American boats to pay the sum now in effect after the canal is turned over to the Panamanians, but leave them free to charge whatever they want to, to other nations, most of whom have been urging us to give it (the canal) to Panama!

And that ain't a bad idea at all.

Be careful of kids

Dove season and school season open next week and let's all be extra careful that we don't have an open season on kids crossing the streets or riding on their bikes.

YOU CAN GO AT HALF SPEED from any point to any other point in Georgetown and not lose over three to five minutes, a small price to pay for children's safety.

AUSTIN—Three major Texas water agencies are moving toward consolidation September 1 into a massive Texas Department of Water Resources.

Acting heads of the new super-agency were named last week to begin supervising the reorganization. The two men considered most-likely contenders for the water "czar" position were passed over.

Charles E. Nemir, 45, who had served as assistant executive director of the Texas Water Quality Board, will be acting executive director of TDWR. Acting deputy director will be Dick Whittington, 49, who has been deputy director of the Texas Water Quality Board.

The 65th legislature ordered combining of the Water Quality Board, Water Development Board and Water Rights Commission.

James M. Rose, TWDB executive director, and Hugh Yantis, executive director of TWQB, were seen as top contenders to head the consolidated department.

Rose announced that he will pass up an offer to remain on the new governing board's staff and launch a planning, consulting and developing firm, offering to assist small towns and other units with governmental assistance programs.

The six-member Water Development Board will be the operating board for the new department.

The Water Quality Board will become a division of water quality and the Water Rights Commission will continue to handle water permit matters under the new department's board umbrella.

Appointments Galore

Dolph Briscoe made a flood of new judicial appointments during the last two weeks.

Resignation of Justice Tom Reavley from the State Supreme Court effective in October led to appointment of Chief Justice T. C. Chadick of Texarkana, Sixth Court of Civil Appeals, to succeed to the top bench.

Briscoe then appointed Sixth Court Justice William J. Cornelius of Jefferson to replace Chadick on the Texarkana intermediate court bench, and he named Stephen Oden of Texarkana to the Sixth Court associate justiceship which had been held by Cornelius since 1973.

The governor moved Beaumont District Judge Harold R. Clayton to the Ninth Court of Civil Appeals to fill a vacancy.

He also appointed Carlton B. Dodson of Lubbock to an associate justice's place on the Seventh Court of Civil Appeals, succeeding Judge Mary Lou Robinson of Amarillo who was named chief justice of the intermediate court.

In the flurry, Briscoe appointed judges to 25 new district courts created by the legislature this year and named incumbent judges of 31 domestic relations and juvenile courts to converted district courts of general jurisdiction.

AG Opinions

State agencies may not refuse to hire a qualified handicapped person because of the handicap, Atty. Gen. John Hill held in a new opinion. But Hill said the agencies cannot establish a special system to reimburse travel expenses of the handicapped who are unable to drive their own cars.

In other recent opinions, Hill concluded: Dallas County must pay the premium for the "errors and omissions" insurance policy law requires the county clerk to obtain.

A former Texas Army National Guard officer is not entitled to access to a report of an investigation of allegations against him, since it tends to reveal identity of informants.

A bank outside the county seat can be used as a county depository without violating prohibitions against branch banking.

Interest on time deposits of the state employees insurance and benefits fund must be credited to the fund itself and not to state general revenue accounts.

Welfare Chief Retires

State Welfare Commissioner Raymond Vowell announced his retirement effective August 31.

Vowell, 62, made his surprise announcement because, he said, the Welfare Department is moving into a new era of radical change in programs.

He said the Welfare Board should be able to select a new commissioner with longer to serve than he, since he is nearing mandatory retirement age.

He served six years as commissioner after a 31-year public service career which included a vice chancellorship with The University of Texas System and director of state special schools.

Gov. Briscoe lauded Vowell's long service.

East Williamson County

Jerry N. Pavlik

THE EAST END of Williamson county is on an expansion boom like you've never seen before. Bumper crops of everything planted in the spring are almost gathered and now we are in the big middle of a building boom in our towns.

IN GRANGER it is mostly homes, big, beautiful brick homes, mainly in the southeast part of the town. Work on the construction of the Granger dam east of the town is going on full blast. Construction on the two large bridges, new road and repairs on old roads is well advanced and may be nearing the finishing touch.

The once quiet, peaceful city of Granger is now roaring with activity. Trucks of all types loaded with all kinds of construction material and equipment are streaming through the town all day with a full complement of hard hats hard at work.

Like the old mare, the old town is not what it used to be. We can see now why two Taylor merchant princes, Jerry Ash and Bill Light, expanded into Granger.

IN TAYLOR, Paul Pokorny, head of the Pokorny Construction Company, one of the largest and most capable in the region, will lay bricks and sheet metal anywhere where there is little vacant space. Paul's enterprise is one of the story book success stories. Sometime when there is little more space and time, we'll tell you more about him.

Another well known builder and entrepreneur in Taylor, John W. Thompson, is laying foundation for a large modern motel with all the trimmings, and if rumors are not only rumors there will be another building or two on the site for the benefit of our expanding community. Talking about building and expanding, you can bet your last dime or doughnut that Calvin Williams won't stay too far behind.

DON'T LET that heat and drought get you down, or at least don't stay down. There isn't much of it left. Just think, another month or so and we'll have those beautiful, damp, cool mornings... no air conditioner, no heater needed... just right, all day and all night... almost ninety days of it! It's great to be alive, isn't it?

Are you a "newcomer" or an "old-timer"? Some people seem to think that how long a person has lived in the community makes a lot of difference in determining his value to the community—I don't! There is a place in the community and its activities for everyone, and we should all work together to make ours a community that is second to none—the really great place that it can be for all of us to call home! —0—

FOOTBALL CONTEST

PICK THE WINNERS AND WIN A PRIZE

Here's How You Play:

HERE WE GO AGAIN! It's football time -- and time for the annual County SUN Football Contest. If you're a Saturday morning armchair quarterback, you can enter this fun Contest and check up on yourself! Might even win a little money at it or a free theater ticket.

Here's a game to test your skill -- it's a game that the whole family can enjoy. Spread this page out on the kitchen table. Let everybody play. There'll be a new contest each week until about the middle of November. So ready, get set, GO!

- Win $10, $5 or $3 for first, second or third respectively
- Next five winners may pick up a free ticket to the Palace Theater!
- Pick up all prizes and theater tickets at The SUN.
- The only notification of the winners will be in the following week's issue.
- See this week's football games on this page.
- In each game, check the team you think will win. (You do NOT need to indicate score).
- Unless all games are marked, your entry will be automatically disqualified.
- Then to eliminate as nearly as possible any ties in this fun-test, every entry must have the score marked on "The Tie Breaker" game listed at right.
- Only one entry per person will be qualified, but as many from a family may enter as wish to do so -- except employees and families of the Williamson County SUN.
- You may enter the fun-test on this page. Or you may copy the games on another sheet of paper, indicating your pick in each game.

- All entries must be brought to The SUN by 5:00 p.m. Friday or mailed with a postmark not later than 7:00 p.m. Friday of each week. The SUN will grade all entries, and The SUN's decision will be final and incontestable.
- Have FUN! And patronize the businesses who make this fun-test possible.

Games This Week

Put an 'X' in the parenthesis in front of the team which you think will win that game.

The Tony Randall Show is moving to CBS in the fall, but Devon Scott won't be going along for the ride. The 19-year-old daughter of George C. Scott has entered Vassar as a language major and will not return to acting till she receives her degree.

BUBBLING ALONG

ABC's sexy new series Soap (the latest cast poses pretty for a group shot here) could bubble up into quite a frothy hit, if it doesn't go down the drain first from adverse criticism. Whatever its fate on the network, Columbia Pictures Television has purchased the syndicated rights to the show. Money passed in the other direction when ABC coughed up something near $8 million for Police Story re-runs from Columbia. They'll run late-nite beginning in January.

DANCING DOLLS

TOM (background) and JOHN KEANE are surrounded by a bevy of young ladies, THE ANITA MANN DANCERS, who go through their paces regularly on the continuing summer series The Keane Brothers Show, airing Fri., Sept. 2 (8-8:30 p.m., EDT) over CBS.

TV Star Scene

Two years ago James Garner underwent knee surgery for an old football injury and has limped his way through The Rockford Files since. Now, just when the limp had cleared up, Garner has gone and done it again—he's broken his kneecap. The show has stopped shooting for 10 days as a result of the accident, which happened when "Jim tripped on some steps and in trying to break the fall, landed on his right knee," according to executive producer Meta Rosenberg. Six episodes for the series have already been shot, so Garner's full-length leg cast will not be in evidence until the seventh episode later in the season... The Love Boat passenger list keeps growing, with new cast members including Ruth Gordon, Meredith Baxter-Birney, Patty Duke Astin, Phil Foster and Tab Hunter.

Latest addition to the cast of "Aspen," NBC's six-hour courtroom drama, is Bo Hopkins. Hopkins plays the Army buddy of the accused slayer, played by Perry King... For 50 years Billboard Magazine has been charting the sales of the record industry with its various Top 100 lists. Now those artists who have been number one on the charts for the longest period this year will be honored in TV's first Billboard Awards show being telecast Dec. 11 as an NBC Big Event. Burt Sugarman, head man for Midnight Special, will serve as executive producer for the musical special.

Dennis Weaver and Sally Struthers will star in a made-for-TV movie about wife beating this season. "Battered" focuses on a seemingly normal couple with two children, but the facade shatters when Weaver takes to beating Struthers out of anger and frustration... PBS goes back to New York City in the 1880s for its newest dramatic series, "The Best of Families," premiering October 27. The eight-part series follows three fictional families through heat waves, the railroad collapse of 1880, the opening of the Brooklyn Bridge, the 1893 Depression, the rise of unionism and the Spanish-American War.

A wire-haired terrier is one thing, but 8,000 ants is a whole other matter, according to Myrna Loy. The actress, who starred in the "Thin Man" series with William Powell and the multi-talented Asta, has been signed to co-star in ABC's feature "Ants!" She

"The Good Old Days" may not be everyone's idea of 1957-1963, but it is Dick Clark's, and that's what he's calling his special set for October 11. Starring in the variety-comedy special are former bobby-soxers Frankie Avalon and Annette Funicello as well as the comedy team of Jerry Stiller and Anne Mearns... William Windom guests on an upcoming episode of Kojak. Meanwhile, series' star Telly Savalas has had little success in solving the real-life robbery of his hotel room of $36,000 in jewels and cash.

Fred Heller

Moves into the 'Sanford Arms'

By DAN LEWIS

Meet Phil Wheller, the new land baron of Watts. He has now assumed control of that vast real-estate compound formerly owned and operated by Fred Sanford and son, Lemont. These holdings include a ramshackle, two-story (we think, since no one has ever seen the second floor, only steps leading to it) home, a typically-cluttered junk yard, and one rooming house, called Sanford Arms. The locale is unchanged. So is the network and the time, Friday nights from 8 to 8:30. But there are major revisions in what television viewers have been accustomed to viewing the last five seasons. It's no longer "Sanford and Son." Redd Foxx, who played the angry, 65-plus, shiftless and scheming father, and Demond Wilson, who played the tolerant, hard-working son, have departed. Allegedly, the Sanfords have sold out and moved to Arizona. But as everyone really knows, they have both defected from the show. Foxx has gone to ABC, where he will host a new variety show each week. As for Demond Wilson, he demanded more money and when it wasn't forthcoming, quit the show. The production team remains intact - Bud Yorkin (of Yorkin and Lear) is still executive producer, and Saul Turteltaub and Bud Grenstein are coproducers, although they have two other series on the air this new season ("What's Happening," a mid-season hit, and "Carter's Country," a new show, both on ABC). And LaWanda Page (Aunt Esther), Whitman Mayo (Grady), Don Bexley (Bubba) and Ray Allen (Woody) will all be back.

But the new honcho of the Sanford estate is Phil Wheeler, played by tall, agile actor with a slightly pitched voice, and a musical background, named

DOUBLE DUTY

RICHARD CHAMBERLAIN stars in the dual role of the foppish King Louis XIV and his swashbuckling twin, Philippe, in the new version of Alexander Dumas' tale of love and treachery, The Man in the Iron Mask, Thurs., Sept. 1 (9-11 p.m., EDT) on NBC. (Repeat)

Theodore (Teddy) Wilson. And the series has been retitled, "Sanford Arms."

Wheeler will be a widower with two kids, who has retired from the army and decided to invest his savings in income-producing property. Aunt Esther will be around with her pious rantings to harass Phil. Her assignment is to look after Fred Sanford's interests. Grady moves into the Sanford Arms with a new wife, Bubba takes the job as handyman of the building and Woody is around just to get in everyone's way.

Teddy Wilson is a product of New York's Negro Ensemble Company, a theatre workshop whose director is that fine actor, Robert Hooks, and whose former members include Sherman Hemsley, star of "The Jeffersons" television series, and Denise Nicholas of "Room 222".

Wilson literally danced his way off the street into the company. He was on a music scholarship to Florida A & M, changed to a drama major then returned to New York, his home town. He wanted to get into the group, but couldn't get through to Hooks.

"So I danced on the street in front of the theater for two days, until Hooks spotted me and came over. He said I'd either get myself arrested, or land in the psychiatric ward at Bellevue Hospital. So he invited me in," Wilson recalls. Later, he became part of the impressive Arena Stage repertory company in Washington, but in 1971, decided to try his luck in Hollywood.

He had a lot of work in television: small roles at first, then the recurring role as Rev. Dooley in "The Waltons," a 13-week stint in the short-lived series, "Roll Cut," and Earl the mailman in "That's My Mama."

Last September, he signed with Tandem, the production company owned by Yorkin and Lear, and began showing up in their shows, including "Sanford and Son."

Unlike Fred Sanford, Phil Wheeler will only show slight hostility, rather than total contempt, for the white society.

"Listen, Phil got this house on a V.A. loan. He can't dislike the white society that much," Wilson reasons.

There will be conflicts, a generation gap, between father and son in the new cast, too. Phil will have a 12-year-old to contend with, but unlike Fred and Lamont Sanford, the family unit will be strong (including an 18 year-old daughter).

How does he feel about going into a revised series?

"I'm an actor. When I'm working, I feel good," he responds.

There is continuing criticism of how blacks are portrayed in television as well as movies. His reaction?

"I never felt guilty or put down," he answers. "It's up to the individual. I have turned roles down that I don't like. I'm an actor, but I'm also looking to help deflate negative images."

"I don't think the problems of the ghetto are as bad as portrayed. I didn't know how held back I was - growing up in the ghetto - until I went to college and read sociology text books. I was stabbed twice as a kid, but I never carried a knife, before or after that."

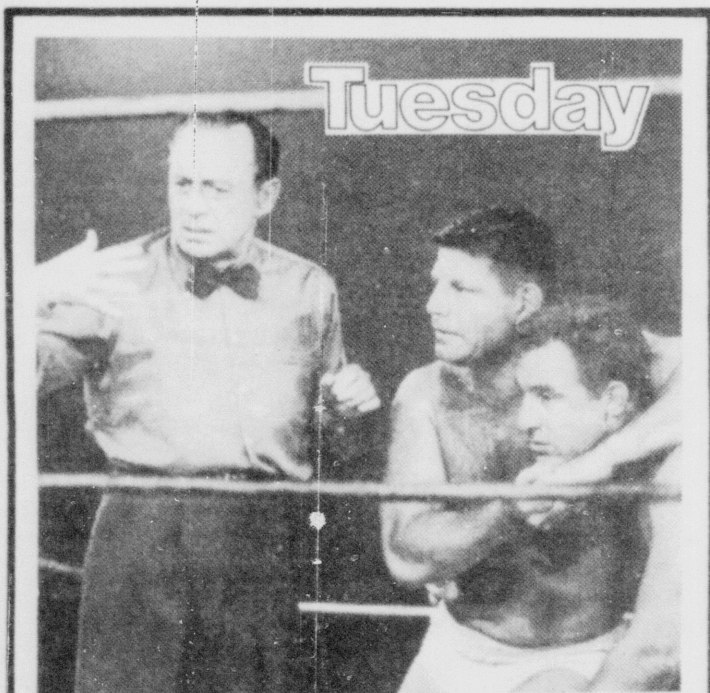

Wilson reveals he has certain goals - to win an Oscar, an Emmy, a Tony.

"But first," he declares, "I want to win a Nobel Prize for artistic endeavor."

SLITHER— I know that Alice Cooper's snake died some months ago and he has gotten a new one for his tour. Where did he get the snake? Does it have a name? I'd like to name my garter snake after Alice's. Mitch Rudnick, Portland, N.D. In show biz, the only way to get a good star is to hold auditions, no? That's what Alice did anyway. Snake lovers converged on Century City back in June when Cooper was auditioning for a rock 'n' roll reptile. The winning snake and owner, Gandhi Newman, are seen posing with Alice below. The snake was dubbed Angel as its new stage name.

Alice and winning snake Angel with original owner.

STAR WARS— After recently seeing "Star Wars" I'm interested in knowing more about its creator George Lucas. Any information? Especially where I can get in touch with him? R.E., Waterbury, Conn.
 STAR WARS II— How old is Mark Hamill from "Star Wars"? Where can I write to him? Charlotte Ray, Las Cruces, N.M.

Writer-director George Lucas recently said that he thought "Star Wars" was only 50% of what it could have been. He plans to write a better script for the sequel, but will maintain the romantic flavor of the original. That's what he's busy working on now— creating new galaxies and such. As for his star, Mark Hamill, he's 26 years old. Both can be reached at 20th Century-Fox Film

Corp., 10100 Pico Blvd., West Los Angeles, CA. 90213. May the force be with you both.

OTHER STARS— What happened to the Star Trek remake? What kind of a deal has finally been worked out and when will we see something? Arnie McDonough, Troy, N.Y.

Your guess is as good as mine at this point. Last word was that the film deal had been scrapped in favor of a new TV series to be made by Paramount Television. Gene Rodenberry made a deal with Paramount to be executive producer for the new series and it's supposed to start shooting this fall. No news has been heard as to whether William Shatner and Leonard Nimoy will return to their original roles, but it seems unlikely right now, since they preferred the film deal.

BAD BEAR— I just saw "Bad News Bears Breaking Training" and really enjoyed Jimmy Baio. Did he play Fonzie's nephew in Happy Days? What other parts has he had? Sabin, Minn.

Baio didn't play the Fonz's nephew, but he did play Richard Castellano's son on Joe and Sons last year, along with Barry Miller. He's been signed for a regular role on ABC's new series Soap, if it doesn't go down the drain first from too much adverse criticism.

GUN TALK— What's Clint Eastwood up to these days. Any more shoot 'em ups on the way? Jerry Clancy, Melrose Park, Ill.

The shooting spree will continue with Eastwood's upcoming release entitled "Gauntlet." He plays another Magnum toting cop, but not Dirty Harry. Also starring are Sondra Locke, who has grown up considerably since her appearance in "The Heart Is a Lonely Hunter," which aired on TV not too long ago.

SIMON SAYS

Phil Silvers will guest in an up-coming two-hour segment of Charlie's Angels, and he gives the credit to playwright Neil Simon. "I was working for Simon in 'The Cheap Detective,' when this offer came in...I asked if the schedule of the movie could be adjusted. Neil said, 'Of course, Phil.' And here I am." Simon once worked for Silvers as a writer on Sgt. Bilko. Here the great comedian is seen with Peter Falk in a scene from "The Cheap Detective."

Birds get leg flags

Bright flags are fluttering on the legs of 2,100 wading bird nestlings, so that they can be spotted easily from a distance.

John Smith, biologist of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, banded and flagged the birds during May, June and July 1977 in an effort to learn movement patterns, migration timetables and marsh habitat utilization of a number of species.

Biologists of the TP&WD need help in tracing the movements of these birds. Anyone seeing a long-legged wading bird with a colored flag on its leg should report it to Bill Brownlee, Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, 4200 Smith School Road, Austin, Texas 78744.

EAGLE DEFENDERS — These five Georgetown Eagles will be counted for plenty of defensive play this fall as they back up the defensive line. Left to right, they are Ricky Nunn (66), Marvin Johnson (21), Dexter Saterfield (25), David Jackson (12) and Brad Miller (22). The Eagles open their season Friday at home against the Copperas Cove Bulldogs with game time set for 8 p.m.

SPEAKING OF SPORTS

By Wilbur Callaway

A fellow asked me the other day, "What in the world is wrong with those blankety-blank Dallas Cowboys? They've lost two games in a row to Seattle (who?) and Miami and they looked terrible the second half against the Dolphins."

Well, before any of you died-in-the-wool Cowboy fans get panicky and start trying to sell your season tickets (if you happen to be fortunate enough to have any), let me assure you: there's nothing wrong with the 'Pokes and they should once again be among the top teams in pro football this fall.

What must be remembered is that these exhibition...oops, pre-season, games don't mean a thing as far as who wins and who loses. Just like high school scrimmage games, the team that scores the most touchdowns doesn't necessarily benefit the most from the session.

COACH TOM LANDRY knows what his veterans can do and he isn't a bit worried about the fact that the Cowboys lost to Seattle and Miami. He's much more interested in seeing what some of the Dallas rookies and non-starters can do.

If you'll recall last week's game with Miami, you'll remember that Roger Staubach moved the Cowboys up and down the field throughout the first half and had Dallas leading 14-6 at the intermission, although neither touchdown was scored until the final seconds of the half.

But Landry wanted to see what backup quarterback Danny White could do, so Roger the Dodger sat out the second half. White had all kinds of problems against the Dolphin defense, which is one of the better ones around, and Dallas never came close to scoring in the second half.

An interception off White handed the Dolphins a gift touchdown and a fourth-period Miami tally was enough to provide a final 20-14 victory for the visitors.

"Winning," Landry says, "is always important because you do not want to establish a losing trend. Losing can become a habit. But I'm not overly concerned about losing two of our first three preseason games."

LANDRY WENT ON to say, "Underneath the surface, the signs we see are not bad. Our offense is moving the ball well most of the time. Roger Staubach is passing well and so is Danny White, except for the Miami game. Drew Pearson and our other front-line receivers are looking very good."

"We'll be much better off when we reach the point where we know who our regulars will be and keep them in there together. We've had a lot of injuries in our offensive line but I feel we'll be fine with our regular group in there."

Fans may recall that the years the Cowboys went to the Super Bowl (1970 and 1975), they were 1-5 and 2-4 in preseason games. So a 1-2 start thus far is nothing to get the old ticker worked up about.

Landry did indicate that the Cowboy regulars would be playing more in the last three preseason games against Baltimore, Houston and Pittsburgh. But even if they don't win all those games, have no fear. The Cowboys are a solid, veteran team with an established winning tradition, and they should continue the same way this season.

The high school football season will be getting underway Friday night with a full schedule of contests and the big one of interest locally, of course, will be Georgetown's clash with invading Copperas Cove.

THE EAGLES HAVE a few scores to settle, having lost to Cove last year by 14-6, and Coach Les Johnson says, "We aim to get after them this time. We were a pretty sorry football team when we played them last year but I guarantee you, you are going to be more competitive this time."

Other season openers around the county Friday night find 12AAA defending champion Taylor kicking off at home against Cameron, Hutto going to Thrall, Granger at home against Burton, Bartlett hosting Academy, Round Rock at home against Austin McCallum, Leander at Pflugerville, Moody at Florence and Liberty Hill at Jarrell.

Other 12AAA teams who'll be opening their seasons include Belton hosting Gatesville, Westlake at home against Gonzales, Lockhart going to Bastrop, Lampasas at Burnet and Del Valle at Kerrville.

I don't know about the rest of you, but I'm anxious to get the season underway. It could be a big one for the Georgetown Eagles, who have an excellent shot at the 12AAA championship. Plenty of support from the people of Georgetown might provide enough of a boost to enable the Eagles to fly right past Belton and Taylor, the two teams picked to finish on top of the race by most observers.

Safety tips given for fishing trip

If a member of your family fails to return from a fishing trip after a reasonable time, what should you do?

The Texas Parks and Wildlife Department advises that if the missing person went to fish on an area lake or river, you should check the marina or place he launched from to see if his vehicle is still there. That would verify his being still on the water and not delayed on the return trip home.

If the vehicle is still at the launch ramp or if you don't know the launching point, you should immediately contact the sheriff's department of the county the person is fishing in, giving all pertinent information regarding him, his craft and fishing plans. Also, contact the local P&WD game warden.

If the person is fishing in salt water, in a bay or out in the Gulf, again you should check the place of launching to determine if he is missing on the water. If that is the case, you should immediately call the nearest U.S. Coast Guard facility as well as the county sheriff's department.

Water safety officials say most problems involving missing fishermen could be solved easily if boaters would make a habit of filing a float plan prior to each trip by informing a member of their family where they will be launching from, the type and description of their fishing craft, who their companions will be, the area they will be fishing and the time they expect to return.

Rescuers then will be able to come more quickly to the aid of distressed anglers.

Suppose you are fishing somewhere and your motor conks out.

According to water safety experts, unless you are very near a shore that you are certain you can reach easily and where help is available, you should remain with your boat and wait for help to arrive. In the meantime, make attempts to signal any passing boats by standing and waving your arms. Larger boats can fly flags upside down as a distress signal.

If you are tied off to a rig in the Gulf, climb to the top of the drilling platform and look for a telephone which some rigs have. This will enable you to contact the oil company which owns the rig and they can summon help.

If you are fishing in open water and notice threatening weather conditions, first put on your life jacket, then proceed immediately to the nearest safe harbor.

Any angler fishing open water should constantly be alert to the weather, noticing particularly the build-up of clouds, the slightest increases in wind velocity or sudden wind shifts.

Being prepared for such emergencies can help avoid a lot of misery and maybe even save your life.

"You've got to look good to play good," my old 9th grade football coach always told us.

And, following that axiom to its logical conclusion, we, the Lockhart High School freshman football team of 1968, would dutifully set about the business of polishing our shoes, taping up our socks and cleaning our helmets. We were beautiful. We were also 9-1 that year.

Using that personal example as supportive evidence, let me state my thesis: FOOTBALL TEAMS ARE ONLY AS GOOD AS THE UNIFORMS THEY WEAR. FOOTBALL'S BEST TEAMS ARE ALSO FOOTBALL'S SHARPEST DRESSERS.

Look at the NFL. The class teams, like Dallas, Oakland, Pittsburgh, etc., are strictly Botany 500. The dogs, like Philadelphia, the New Yorks (both of 'em), Tampa Bay, etc., look like they ordered their uniforms from Drucker's Dry Goods.

I'm a sportswriter by vocation, not a fashion critic. But please grant me license to unveil my 1977 NFL Best and Worst Dressed Lists.

THE BEST

1) DALLAS — Even if I didn't love the Cowboys more than The Flag, Jacqueline Bisset and several family members, I'd have to admit that the Cowboys are the slickest dressers in pro football history. Just the sight of that star on the Pokes' helmet gives me chills. Actually, their blue jerseys look better than the white ones, but we all know that the Cowboys can't play worth a darn in blue.

2) PITTSBURGH — Elegant in its simplicity, the Steelers' uniforms are the ultimate in tasteful gridiron apparel. Basic black. No frills. Conservative. You'd feel safe loaning money to the Steelers.

3) MIAMI — If you like the Gulf of Mexico on a sunny afternoon, you'll love the Dolphins' uniforms. The home jerseys look remarkably like Corpus Christi Bay.

4) BUFFALO — Disregard their 2-12 record last year. The Bills' uniforms (especially on the road) are as sleek and beautiful as that guy who plays halfback for them.

5) KANSAS CITY — Remember the Super Chiefs, dressed in red, doing a fandango on the Vikings in

Super Bowl IV? Memorable.

THE WORST

1) BALTIMORE — See page 68 of the Montgomery Ward Fall Catalogue.

2) NEW YORK JETS — Every time I see the Jets, I have a craving for a lime popsicle.

3) ST. LOUIS — They'll never catch the Cowboys looking like that.

4) PHILADELPHIA — The Eagles would look right at home on the dance floor of "American Bandstand."

5) MINNESOTA — The only team ever to lose four Super Bowls, the Vikings are also the only team that could manage to mess up a gorgeous color like purple.

IN MOTHER'S FOOTSTEPS

What joy in life is seen in those eyes. That smile is given freely to everyone. Now look at them both. Which one am I talking about? Aren't they both the same? No, she's not an exact, carbon copy, of her mother—for when you look again, you see that there is a generation between them. She wears the bright colors in her dress with the cute designs. Her dreams are different than her mothers. She is more outgoing. Yet in the mother you can see a quiet humor and in her closeness to her daughter, a gentle protectiveness. Her mother's dreams are sometimes too ambitious, but in the "Encouragement Department" she works just fine.

There is one dream and ambition they both have, however; and that is to be like our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ, and to be of service to the church. Their goodness is of God.

"For the eyes of the Lord are over the righteous, and his ears are open unto their prayers; but the face of the Lord is against them that do evil." I Peter 3:12.

EVERYONE IN THE CHURCH
THE CHURCH IN EVERYONE

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Two resident nuns come to St. Helen's Church

St. Helen's Catholic Church of Georgetown is very pleased to announce the arrival of two religious co-ordinators for St. Helen's School of Religion, according to Father Al Palermo, pastor of the church.

Arriving to make their home at St. Helen's Convent as the congregation's first resident nuns are Sister Anclille Furlong and Sister Marguerite Goonan, who are Sinsinawa Dominican Sisters of Sinsinawa, Wisconsin.

Even though, Sister Anclille and Sister Marguerite are in Texas for the first time, their colleagues staff the Bishop Lynch High School in Dallas. Two such sisters are at St. Delores Parish in Austin and two others will soon be in Burnet.

Both sisters are very pleased to be in Georgetown and have taken a tremendous liking to the small community togetherness of this small Texas town.

Sister Anclille, who will be the co-ordinator of religion at St. Helen's, said she is accustomed to a small community of people as she comes here from Kingfisher, Oklahoma, which is referred to as the "Buckle of the Wheat Belt." She will be working directly with the CCD teachers in organizing the religious programs.

Sister Anclille received her certificate from the Theological Institute of St. Norbert in DePere, Wisconsin two years ago. She also received religious training at the University of San Francisco.

Prior to coming to Oklahoma, Sister Anclille was co-ordinator at Schiller Park, Illinois.

Sister Marguerite, like Sister Anclille, grew up in Chicago and both nuns received their initial training at the Dominican Mother House in Wisconsin.

Sister Marguerite, who will be sister Anclille's co-worker, has taught in several states, but this is her first assignment in Texas. She said, "I like the smallness of Georgetown where I can take a walk around the neighborhood in the evening." Sister Marguerite was also educated at the Edgewood College at Madison, Wisconsin.

There has been no exact announcement as to the opening date of the fall religious classes. A definite date will be set following the nuns' meeting with the lay teachers of the church.

This will also require more involvement and more help from the lay people in working with the nuns in order to properly do this spiritual work.

In conclusion, Sister Anclille stated, "We are here to work with St. Helen's as a team and do the best we can."

Father Palermo along with Sister Margaret Mary Griffin, a Provincial Counselor of Wisconsin, arranged the arrival of the nuns to this parish. Father Palermo said that St. Helen's has a responsibility as a parish to bring the message of Christ as far as scripture and tradition to all the people. The message is always the same, but the presentation changes, therefore, St. Helen's is to meet its commitment to God in various ways and it will be advantageous to have nuns professionally trained in religion who will be capable of using all modern teaching techniques.

Investigator Jim Boutwell and Texas Ranger Wallace Spillar were in the area working on another case, reported the Sheriff's Department, when they stopped to "stake out" the plants from a spot about 100 yards away.

The plants were about 3 feet tall and described as having "luxurious growth." The exact weight of the marijuana has not been determined.

Weems was placed in the Williamson County Jail Wednesday evening. He was released on a $500 cash bond on Thursday.

IT APPEARED that a few of the plants spotted earlier had already been harvested, reported the Sheriff's Department.

Leander man hated to see 5 pot plants pulled up

A 18 year-old Leander man was arrested for possession of marijuana Tuesday evening in a field behind his house after a Sheriff's Department Investigator and a Texas Ranger caught him watering five pot plants.

Robert Eric Weems seemed more upset about having those five "well cared for plants" pulled up than he did about being arrested, reported the Sheriff's Department.

SHERIFF'S DEPUTIES had been keeping an eye on the plants, which were being cultivated about one half mile west of Bagdad Road between Leander and Liberty Hill, for several weeks.

Investigator Jim Boutwell and Texas Ranger Wallace Spillar were in the area working on another case, reported the Sheriff's Department, when they stopped to "stake out" the plants from a spot about 100 yards away.

The plants were about 3 feet tall and described as having "luxurious growth." The exact weight of the marijuana has not been determined.

Weems was placed in the Williamson County Jail Wednesday evening. He was released on a $500 cash bond on Thursday.

Local TSTA met Tuesday

The Executive Committee of the Georgetown chapter of the Texas State Teacher's Association held a short meeting Tuesday, August 23.

The presidency was assumed by president-elect Gary Shaver, who replaced Joe Eivens. Eivens has accepted a position with the University of Texas in Austin.

Plans were made during the meeting to promote membership in TSTA and to choose a new president-elect.

pertinent considerations in addition to the objections of the tax paying owners of adjacent property. They are:

1. Water for this area of our city has been a problem for some time. A recent grant application by city administration validates this concern.

2. Playgrounds for this proposed building are planned along Leander Road which is a rural traffic artery carrying heavy fast moving traffic.

3. The site is the high ground as the land rises from I-35. This will make the noise level in these apartments quite high both day and night. It is felt that this will bring about frequent vacancies in the proposed units.

4. The 2 story units are immediately adjacent to private residences. This will have a very detrimental effect on the property values of these homes and rob these people of their right to privacy in their own backyards.

Certainly it would seem that there could be found a more desirable location for this type construction. This is a poor location both from the standpoint of possible tenants in these units and certainly from the viewpoint of adjacent homeowners.

Admittedly, it is easy for those of us who haven't the responsibility of elected officials to second guess these men. However, I sincerely hope that our city council and mayor will give serious and studied thought to Georgetown's remarkable growth.

Liberty Hill trustees begin plans for a new school, football field

Liberty Hill school trustees voted Wednesday to begin plans for an ambitious new building program.

Superintendent Bud Perry was authorized to recommend an architect that would draw up plans for a new elementary school, football field, baseball field and possibly a new auditorium.

THE ESTIMATED cost for the program would be about $1 million.

The architect will draw up plans for an expandable 400-capacity elementary school, a new 2,000 seat football field, a new baseball field and, possibly, renovation of the gym so that it could also be used as an auditorium.

School board President Jimmy Spivey said that the district may apply for a matching federal grant to help pay for the new building.

Federal funds have been used to pay for about 80 percent of similar projects in other districts, said Spivey, but the possibility is only being explored at this time.

TRUSTEES are hoping to meet with a federal representative before the next school board meeting. Spivey said that it is not yet known if Liberty Hill would qualify for a federal grant.

Perry said that the present elementary school could exceed its 300-seat capacity in September.

The board wants to select an elementary school site that would allow for expansion later on.

Immunization is entire family's goal

Immunization for the whole family is the goal of "August — Immunization Action Month" — as public and volunteer groups promote that campaign across Texas, says Carla Shearer, health education specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

The danger is that immunizations are often delayed or forgotten. Childhood diseases don't seem threatening now. However, it is only by immunizing that we prevent epidemics, she says.

"Immunization, then, is artificial activation of this defense mechanism. Check with the doctor, she suggests. Bring family immunizations records up to date and keep them that way.

Navy mate tours Indian Ocean

Joe Sazavala Jr., the son of Mrs. Torivia R. Zavala of Georgetown, will spend two and one-half months aboard a U.S. navy ship touring the Indian Ocean.

He has previously been stationed in Japan and will soon be visiting ports in the Philippines, Australia, Singapore, Hong Kong, Africa, Pakistan and Taiwan.

Sazavala will be coming home on leave in December, for the first time in two years.

City employee Herrera dies

Georgetown City offices were to be closed at 10:30 a.m. Saturday so city employees could attend the funeral of Water Department employee Santos Herrera, who died Thursday night of a massive heart attack.

Herrera, 57, married and the father of several children, was stricken at 7 p.m. Thursday and rushed to Friday, September 2, at the Georgetown High School football game.

There's likely to be a big crowd at St. John's Methodist Church on Sunday, August 28, since Rev. C. C. McKinney is to be the guest preacher. His Wesleyan family will need to be there to support him and to see how well he does. We know he brings good messages when he speaks here on Wednesdays, and we're expecting great things from him.

Mrs. Lela Mae Ischy has had a number of visitors lately: her daughter and family, Maj. and Mrs. J. H. Perkins and children Timothy and Matthew, who have just returned from England. Their new address is Cannon Air Force Base, N.M. Other visitors were her cousin Lena Holiday of Round Rock and Mrs. H. N. Roberson of Georgetown.

Texas names honor roll

The University of Texas at Austin has named 1,027 students to the 1977 spring semester honor roll in the College of Business Administration. To qualify for the honor roll, a student must have carried 12 or more semester hours of graded work, passing all courses, and have compiled at least six hours of A averages and the rest B or above.

The list includes four students from Georgetown: John Henry Carver, Teresa Gale Chambers, Dana Lou Turner and Mary Clemmons Wood.

Other Williamson County students on the honor roll are Linda Lou Emrick and George Edward Glaser of Leander, and Lisa Kay Corbett and Griffin B. Tegeman of Taylor.

Garland Young of Lockhart, and her sister, Mrs. G. D. Alexander of Kyle, came for a visit.

Mrs. Otilie Sowell spent last weekend in Marble Falls, the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Cole. She attended Sunday School, Church and a covered dish dinner in the new Methodist Church and enjoyed visiting with old friends.

"The History of Wildlife in America," by the National Wildlife Federation, was presented to the Wesleyan Library by Miss Helen Post from her late father's library. It is one of the most beautiful and fascinating books I've seen in a long time. I started just looking at the pictures, and before I knew it twenty minutes had gone by and I was reading every word on every page. Don't pick it up unless you have plenty of time.

Williamson County to take a look at itself

October 1 has been set aside as a day for Williamson County to get to know itself better.

Residents from all over the county have begun planning a Williamson County Natural and Cultural Resources Preservation Day.

THE EVENT will be a series of programs and exhibits for, by and about Williamson County. It will be held at Southwestern University at Georgetown.

The all-day affair is being sponsored by the Capital Area Planning Council (CAPCO) using funds from a state grant.

"We need people who want to participate," said Claude Kennard, and an art professor at Southwestern.

"The events are still in the planning stages," said Kennard, "still open to new ideas."

SO FAR plans are underway on exhibits about landmarks and landscapes in Williamson County.

There will also be programs or exhibits on historical restoration, ethnic dances and county archaeology.

There will be programs on the distinct contributions to Williamson County by various ethnic groups including Czechs, Swedes, Germans, Chicanos and Blacks.

FOR MORE INFORMATION contact Loretta Neiman in Round Rock at 255-4580 or A. M. Ahlgren in Taylor at 352-2379.

Gas prices down

Texans planning motoring trips during the Labor Day Weekend can budget a little less for gasoline than they could two months ago. According to a survey made by the American Automobile Association, the average price of regular gasoline has declined by over 1 cent per gallon since the July Fourth Weekend.

The survey of 207 service stations throughout the state showed that regular gas is now selling for an average price of 58.9 cents per gallon, compared to the average of 60.2 cents per gallon revealed by AAA's Independence Day survey.

Prices for unleaded and premium fuel also declined, though by lesser amounts. The current average prices (July 4 prices in parentheses) are: Unleaded — 62.2 (63.0); Premium — 63.9 (64.6).

Gasoline prices remain higher than they were last Labor Day Weekend, when AAA's survey revealed averages of 57.4 for regular, 59.4 for unleaded and 61.1 for premium.

The survey showed that motorists can save money by shopping around for fuel. The price charged for regular gasoline ranged from 47.9 cents per gallon at a self-service station in Beaumont to 69.9 cents per gallon at a full-service station in Fort Stockton. But regular was selling for as little as 55.9 in Fort Stockton, and for as much as 65.9 in Beaumont.

Station operators contacted by AAA for the survey said they expect no supply problems during the Labor Day Weekend, and most stations will be open Sunday and Monday of the long weekend.

Bentsen proposing drug strike force

Washington, D.C. — Senator Lloyd Bentsen proposed this week that the Justice Department establish a drug strike force, similar to the strike forces used against organized crime, to combat drug smuggling across the Mexican border.

Bentsen asked Attorney General Griffin Bell to consider this approach.

"As you know, drug abuse ranks fourth as a cause of death among American men ages 18-24, and is a major contributing cause of violent street crime, as well as a source of great profit for organized crime," the Senator said in a letter to the Attorney General.

"A high proportion of dangerous drugs used in this country enter across the Mexican border. It has been estimated, for example, that every year some four to seven tons of heroin enter across this border alone."

"I believe that a major strike force effort could increase the effectiveness of law enforcement in dealing with the very serious drug problem. By employing the methodology of organized crime strike forces, it would allow greater consolidation and targeting of resources," Bentsen said.

Under the strike force concept the efforts of different federal agencies — such as the Drug Enforcement Administration, the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the Internal Revenue Service, the Customs Service and the Immigration and Naturalization Service — are coordinated against a target or group of targets under the direction of a prosecutor.

"This approach is particularly suited to the special problems involved in combating drug smuggling along the border area. The Texas-Mexican border alone includes 14 counties stretching over 850 miles," Bentsen said.

"A well organized strike force could help ferret out illegal drug traffic and combat this serious national problem. I am encouraged by the President's leadership in the effort to end the fragmentation that all too often hampers drug enforcement efforts. I would urge your serious consideration of the strike force proposal," Senator Bentsen said.

★ Teachers

session as practical as possible and it gives each teacher something to take back to the classroom."

She explained that the teachers attend two or more sessions each of the two days that are linked with the classes an individual teaches. There were sessions on remedial math, how to teach the metric system, classroom management, art, band, helping students get jobs. There was even a "Workshop Workshop," a workshop designed to teach instructors how to successfully hold a classroom workshop.

Mrs. Gage said that the curriculum used during the session was derived from the top requests received when all teachers in the county were surveyed.

"We called on agency consultants, regional service personnel, and classroom teachers who were recommended by fellow teachers or principals to teach the sessions."

Mrs. Gage was highly complimentary of the sharing sessions in which about 30 teachers each presented a successful approach to learning in a particular study area.

Many of the teachers spent the two days watching and participating in demonstrations, discussions and others made classroom materials and shared their ideas with other teachers.

This is the second year the Georgetown school district has hosted the two-day session that has previously been held in Taylor. "We have been preparing since April to get ready for this," Mrs. Gage said, "and we will probably continue to host Project STAR for a while."

School districts participating in Project STAR included Georgetown, Round Rock, Taylor, Florence, Hutto, Leander, Jarrell and Westside.

★ Judge Stone

was employed at Georgetown Oil Mill.

In 1917, Stone volunteered for service in World War I, was in the Signal Corps of the Aviation Section and went overseas in July 1918 as an Aero Squadron Commander. He was discharged in January 1919, returning to his position with the Georgetown Oil Mill.

Entering politics in 1923, the young Stone ran successfully for the place of County Tax Assessor-Collector, and served at that post until he was elected in 1934 to the office of County Judge. He served in that office from January 1935 until Dec. 31, 1970.

Sam Stone and Berenice B. Hufstutler, also of Georgetown, were married August 25, 1931. In August 1939, Stone won his degree in law from the University of Texas.

Judge Stone was active in numerous civic affairs through the years. He was selected as Georgetown's "Worthy Citizen," was active in the local American Legion and helped organize a number of other posts in the area. He was a civil defense director during World War II, a member of the Lions Club, Country Club, Williamson County Bar Association, and served on the Board of Trustees of the First Methodist Church. He was one of the county's strong workers for dams on the San Gabriel River.

An avid supporter of Boy Scout work, Judge Stone was a Scoutmaster for 45 years and was given the honorary Silver Beaver award. He also served for a number of years as the chairman of the Williamson County Historical Survey Committee (now Historical Commission) and was instrumental in having a number of markers placed in the county in 1936 during the state's centennial year. He remained active in the Commission until his frail health prevented his participation more than a year ago.

Aircraft owners must file return

Most taxpayers who own aircraft must file a special Federal tax return, Form 4638, by August 31.

The return, Form 4638, must include the $25 annual fee for each aircraft plus the tax of 3½ cents for each pound of maximum certified take-off weight for turbine powered aircraft, and 2 cents for each pound of maximum certified take-off weight over 2,500 pounds for piston powered aircraft, according to the Internal Revenue Service.

The tax year for the use tax begins July 1 and runs through June 30. If the first taxable use of an aircraft occurs after July 31, the tax based on weight is proportionately reduced.

Supplies of Form 4638 and the free IRS Publication 582, "Federal Use Tax on Civil Aircraft," providing additional information on the aircraft use tax, are available at many local IRS offices.

Heritage plans move

Heritage Printing and Office Supplies, Georgetown's oldest retail establishment, is moving two doors north to 705 Main, and plans to open at its new location Monday, according to John King, owner.

The area previously occupied by Heritage will be utilized by the Williamson County Sun for expansion of office and production space.

The building acquired by King from Mrs. Albert S. Evans in May, had previously housed a portion of Atkin Furniture Co. and most recently a White's Auto Store.

Remodeling included modernizing the front office space for retailing and the addition of two offices and a balcony for paper and merchandise storage.

The Georgetown Area Community Calendar is one of those items that Mrs. Wood feels will greatly benefit all groups, clubs and organizations in planning and setting dates for projects and events.

"It is designed to help groups avoid conflicts of interest," the manager said,

"and all you have to do to get listed is call the Chamber of Commerce office."

She explained that the calendar will be kept many months in advance with activities such as ball games, club meetings and special programs, school activities and church functions listed. Any individual wishing to know what activities are planned for a particular date can call and possibly avoid a conflict with another organization that might lessen attendance or success. She also urges surrounding communities to call and list activities.

Another new service being offered at the chamber is in cooperation with Lone Star Gas Company and makes it possible for civic or business groups to get a program speaker. By calling the chamber office you can arrange to get a representative from the gas company come to your club meeting and inform the guests of such topics as the "Future of American Oil and Natural Gas," "Saving Money on Utility Bills,"

"Reasons for Higher Gas Utility Bills" or "Explaining the American Economic System." The speakers are available to civic or service clubs, employee groups, church groups, school classes and professional associations.

New merchants and businessmen in the Georgetown area will find more than just the routine maps of the city at the Chamber office now that Mrs. Wood is working with the office of Comptroller Bob Bullock to provide information concerning tax requirements and procedures for new businesses.

"Your New Business and the Texas Sales Tax," is a new publication prepared by Bullock's office designed to help answer frequent requests for the "how to's" of getting off on the right tax foot.

The booklet has sections on sales tax permits, applications and bond requirements; how to prepare sales tax and use tax returns including a sample form; covering sales tax and use tax exemptions and how to apply; legal rights, audits and penalties; how to claim a refund. It also contains a convenient sales tax and use tax table and lists the many comptroller field offices in the state.

Mrs. Wood added that the Greater Georgetown Area Chamber of Commerce will be represented in Fredericksburg this weekend when Queen Rebecca Commagere and her duchesses will travel with the chamber float to participate in the annual Gillespie County Fair and Rodeo parade.
